SOURCE Kung-shang Jih-pao.RUSSIANS TAKE OVER WEATHER STATIONS IN CHINA

Taihoku, 20 June -- A Chinese meteorologist, formerly employed at the Chiang-wan airfield weather station in Shanghai, who escaped from Shanghai to Taiwan, reported that the Russians took over control of the above station in May 1950. He added that all important weather stations in North China are now in the hands of the Russians, who are importing Russians or Russian-trained Chinese from North China and the Northeast to man these stations.
